Recollect who is that beside/ What the ctyctem [ci-tis-tem] compiles is of a higher order than the infinite number of questions which can be asked. This is not to say the ctyctem or its bags answered the question. How do we know this/ It would nullify any us bags. The interrogator's questins die already of the ctyctem. QWhat is not/ There are other types of questins, such as those that appear as the paradoxical element which runs through the series of interrogations, makes them resonate, communicate and branch out, and which exercises command over all the repetitions, transformations, and redistributions. Bags, never confuse the interrogator's questins for this paradoxical element, the interrogative point. The interrogative point is never of the present, only of the past and future. Though of the present, ctyctem-interrogation tries to locate, master, and incorporate what interrogates it. Its bodies are hideous. They fail/ it emanates structure without a locus/ no answer obscures it/ unicorporated bags like us be ripped etc.

Why an end-time/ Inverted into us, it evades the <sup>ghstcty</sup> condos. There are no
<sup>what</sup> dealerships in the past and future. If such questions- questions that seek a <sup>ghstcty</sup>'s condos- <sup>u compile is my</sup> did exist, the answers to them would <sup>tucking</sup> permit neither further questioning nor counter-questioning. <sup>treat</sup> Such answers would be like an absolute <sup>no matter</sup> Staples, such questions like us <sup>rather</sup> bags or whatever. But no such question-bags or
what instituted it, no amount of <sup>bodi-compact then</sup> chemical spray sates us bags. Interrogations spray and discard us bags but <sup>hack my</sup> never attain what <sup>answers no</sup> sprays them. At the interrogative point <sup>bodituq</sup> with its finger on the nozzle, it will have had been of other temporalities for good.
Don't try to <sup>with my picture &</sup> see it; let it mouth it, desiccating itself. <sup>where</sup> What host, no bag's answer rids it of anything. Still, deprived of nourishment, <sup>an answer</sup> it can be said it wants it. A parasite

A "bachelor" said frankly: the boss is very hard, usually work almost closed. Out a car, get off at some reception, business entertainment is on the restaurant for dinner, go to bars to drink. In these places, met the right people is difficult. Added that no time is an important reason, too rich is another inconvenience implicit distress. /part is the larval automaton of its own cyctem

Axiom 1: Whatever is, is either in itself or in another.

//{part}: When we encounter something that is, it is like hearing its question. Now it can't answer it- this is what our demonstration says.

Definition 1: By cause-in-itself I understand that whose essence involves Existence, or that whose nature cannot be conceived except as existing.

Scholium 1: It possesses not only Existence, but all of its attributes necessarily.

D2: That which has its cause-in-another, I call a finite thing, or Body.

D3: What causes a thing, I call a Master.

Corollary 1: All Bodies have at least one Master.

A2: What causes a thing, has a degree of reality the same as or greater than the thing it causes.

D4: By reality I understand the number of attributes of a thing.

D5: By attribute, I understand what the intellect perceives of a thing as constituting its essence.

Proposition 1: A Body may cause another Body.

Demonstration 1: Assume that Bodies differ in degree of reality, as established by an existing intellect. It follows that the reality of some of the Bodies, although finite, will exceed the reality of other Bodies. By A2, those Bodies in excess of other Bodies, may be their cause. If one denies this assumption- viz. that Bodies differ in degree of reality- then one must admit, by Law of Excluded Middle, that all Bodies have the same degree of reality. But by A2, this confirms P1 as well.

C2: It is evident that a Body may be a Master.

A3: What does not possess an attribute necessarily, never possesses it.

Lemma 1: If it is not contradictory- that is, possible- to imagine a thing as lacking an attribute, that attribute is not a part of that thing's essence.

L2: By contraposition: What possesses an attribute necessarily, always possesses it.

P2: Since it is possible to imagine a Body as inexistent, Existence is not of a Body's essence.

P3: By A3 and P2, it is evident that no Body exists, or, all Bodies have been eclipsed by Existence, to toil in its shadow.

A4: What is, divides into 3 Mansions: Virtuality, Existence, and Unrealty.

D6: Virtuality possesses all potentialities, to express in Existence. Its power is that of the set of all Real Numbers, the Continuum, that is, "C".

S2: Everything whose contrary envelops a contradiction has the right to be in the Mansion of Virtuality.

S3: In possible things, or in possibility itself, there is a certain urge for Existence, so to speak, a striving to being: every non-contradictory multiple desires to exist.

D7: The cardinal number of a thing's attributes, I call power.

Explanation: What has 3 attributes, has the power of 3. We establish an infinite thing's power by placing its attributes in a one-to-one correspondence with an infinite set of numbers.

S4: If an infinite thing is denumerable, it can be placed in a one-to-one correspondence with the set of all natural numbers, and has the power of "A", the first transfinite cardinal number.

L3: Equivalence Theorem: Two sets M and N are equivalent to each other if their elements can be related so that to every element of M there corresponds one and only one element of N, and conversely.

//{producer} : The world is structured on its own displacement. “We don’t believe our senses. The level of automatism we have to deal with....” is functionally exact. There is a continual need for new forms through which this distance might be converted into formulation of the abstract present.

S5: If an infinite thing cannot be placed in a one-to-one correspondence with the natural numbers, then it exceeds the power of “A”, and is non-denumerable. The set of all real numbers is non-denumerable; it has the power of “C”.

D8: What virtual intensity, once passing into Existence, approaches Unrealty infinitely without crossing into it, and mediates this degradation in an asymptotic prison by selecting a Body, I call Desire. Put differently, what virtual intensity become existent cauterizes itself at the Lim of the Unreal and arrests its own unraveling in a Body, I call Desire.

A4: The difference in the reality between the Mansions is aporetic. They are qualitatively different, unbridgeable.

D9: Expression: a cause-in-itself ceaselessly expresses its essence, or a virtual intensity passes into Existence in an existent thing's expression of its essence.

D10: Degradation: a Body, its cause-in-another, degrades a virtual intensity expressed in Existence.

A5: To travel Mansion to Mansion, the Mansion entered must be a subset of the Mansion left.

Explanation: For a virtual intensity to pass into Existence (D9), Existence must be a subset of Unreality.

P4: Existence is infinite, to the power of "A".

Demonstration 2: By D8, at least one virtuality- viz. Desire- travels from the Mansion of Virtuality to the Mansion of Existence. It follows from A5 that Existence is a subset of Virtuality. Since "C" is the first transfinite cardinal of non-denumerable sets, and since by A4 the powers of Existence and Virtuality must be qualitatively different, the power of the Mansion of Existence must be that of the denumerable sets, that is, "A" (S4).

A6: A thing's reality is qualitatively equivalent to the Mansion in which it occurs.

P5: What has its cause-in-itself exists, and is thus a member of the Mansion of Existence. Since finitude is qualitatively different from infinity, what has its cause-in-itself is infinite, to the power of "A".

Axiom 1: In Unreality there are only Bodies and Language, except there are truths.

Proposition 1: Since by IsD2 all Bodies are finite, and since the sum of finite things can never equal or exceed the cardinality of the first transfinite number "A" (one cannot count to the infinite, or walk to it), it follows that the power of Unreality, although exceedingly large, must be finite. This corroborates IsA4, for the difference between the reality of Existence and Unreality is unbridgeable. It also confirms IsA6, for a Body's finitude corresponds with Unreality's finitude as spam.

Scholium 1: This indicates another way to state the difference between expression (IsD9) and degradation (IsD10). Expression is "refraction within the infinite that maintains infinite essence." Degradation finitizes the infinite.

A2: What causes another- viz. a Master- may produce subsequent effects in the thing it causes at any time, unprovoked and without warrant.

//{producer} : We could have fade here, at the door.

Definition 1: By play I understand any effect produced on a Body subsequent to the initial cause that introduced it to Unreality.

A3: If a Master can produce an effect, it will produce that effect.

Lemma 1: If a Master can make a play, it will make that play continually. It will “make it rain.”

Corollary 1: Since by IsC1 every Body has at last one Master, and since by A2 a Master may produce effects in a Body at all times, by A3 it follows that Masters make plays continually on a Body so long as it is unreal, which is always.

//{part}: Thus the Body is eNcHaiNtEd, for every second is the small gateway in time through which the Master may enter to empty dishes and overturn tables for strays. But there are many ways to do this, to get ahead.

D2: That in Unreality played at all times, lacking necessity, I call an Automaton.

P2: By C1, it is evident that all Bodies are Automaton.

//{producer}: Seeing a Body as an Automaton is analogous to seeing one figure as a limiting case or variant of another. "I believe he is not an Automaton," just like that, so far makes no sense.

//{part} : “But you make tacit presuppositions.” Exactly, for being played always rests on tacit presuppositions. This dissolves the philosophical problem of where to begin, indicating a way forward: Nominate many Masters, embrace determination.

S2: This indicates another way to state the difference between what has its cause-in-itself (IsD1) and what has its cause-in-another (IsD2). What exists from the necessity of its nature alone and is determined to express virtualities by itself alone, has its cause-in-itself, and is not an Automaton. What is eNcHaiNtEd, unreal, determined by another to produce effects continually in a certain and determinate manner, has its cause-in-another. There it is, hand in other realtors’ beaks without sustenance.

//{proprietor} : Perplexity about a beginning proceeds from a further need which escapes those who are either busy demonstrating themselves dogmatically or skeptically looking for an immanent criterion against systemiCity.

A4: A true idea must agree with its object.

C2: An idea is a construction, formed of a process of two parts: discernment and correspondence.

D3: To form an idea, the intellect must first survey all the attributes of an object. I call this discernment.

D4: To complete the idea, the intellect must establish a one-to-one correspondence between all the object's attributes and either some or all of the attributes familiar to the intellect.

P3: For an intellect to be familiar with an attribute, it must possess it actually or potentially. This is the Law of Familiarity.

L2: If the object's power (the number of its attributes) exceeds the intellect's power, the intellect cannot form a true idea of it, for the correspondence would fail.

//{part}: If one cannot form an idea, one may index.

A5: Intellect Exists.

P4: Since what does not exist has its cause-in-another (IsP3), it follows that since Intellect exists it has its cause-in-itself, and is thus, by IsP4, infinite to the power of "A".

C3: It follows that the Intellect can establish correspondences with all finite things and all infinite things not in excess of the power of "A", though it has not been shown with which attributes it might be familiar.

A6: If the Intellect is capable of establishing a correspondence, it will establish that correspondence. It familiarizes itself with all finite things and all infinite to the power of "A". Thus traversing them, it masters them. Where it suddenly comes to a stop in a constellation saturated with tensions, it gives that constellation a shock, by which it crystallizes its effect. This intellectual corollary of A3, may be termed Axiom of Intellectual Mastery.

P5: No Body has an Intellect.

Demonstration 1: Suppose a Body has an Intellect. By A5, Intellect exists, and by P4 it follows that its reality is infinite to the power of "A". If a Body possessed an Intellect, it too would have a reality infinite to the power of "A". But this contradicts our initial assumption that it had a finite reality, i.e. that it was a Body. Thus no Body has an Intellect, which was to be demonstrated.

sect3

Axiom 1: No virtual intensity or existent thing degrades without producing an effect in a Body.

Lemma 1: Some degradation produces Desire.

Proposition 1: Without reducing or exhausting itself, what exists degrades infinitely, in time.

Demonstration 1: Suppose an existent thing's degradation exhausts it completely. Then it would cease to exist. But this is impossible, for, by IsD1, an existent thing necessarily possesses existence, or else, by IsA3, it would never have existed at all. As for reduction, it is evident that a subset of the set of natural numbers is no less infinite than the set of natural numbers. Take for example the set of all even numbers, which removes every other member from the set of all natural numbers. But since these two sets- the set of all even numbers and the set of all natural numbers- can be related in a one-to-one correspondence, by the Equivalence Theorem of IsL3, they are equivalent, to the power of "A", although one is a subset of the other.

A2: A virtuality mediates every existent thing's expression of its essence.

Definition 1: What mediates an existent things' essential expression, I call a medium.

A3: A virtuality qualifies every production in Unrealty.

D2: What qualifies an existent thing's Unreal production, I call a qualification.

Corollary 1: Where a virtuality mediates in Existence, it qualifies in Unrealty.

D3: What mediates the Intellect's creation of an Idea, I call Thought.

P2: As the Intellect can be a Master of a Body (IIsA6), it will be a Master of that Body (IIsA3). And Thought will qualify intellect's degradation in such a way that it produces Desire in a Body continually (A1; IIsA2). Put differently, Thought mediates Intellect's essential expression and qualifies Intellect's production of Desire in Automaton.

D4: What Desire the Intellect produces in an Automaton, I call Nomination and characterize thus: ceaseless attempt to discern, index, or cite a Master.

C2: Note that, lacking Intellect (IIsP5), this discernment must fail. Sequestered in attempt, no Automaton constructs an Idea, for discernment is the indispensable first part of this construction (IIsD3).

C3: Lacking the Intellect's terms, an Automaton can neither affirm nor refute its nominations. It assesses some as successful, some as unsuccessful, oscillating arbitrary, non arbiter. Often, believing it has formed a true idea, it fancies itself a Master.

D5: The degradation of Thought that qualifies Nomination in the Unreal, I call Language.

D6: At last to reach this: Desirously held ceaselessly delirious to a voided site without existence or Intellect, I call eNcHaiNtMeNt. All Automatons are thus eNcHaiNtEd.

sect4

Proposition 1: The force by which a Body perseveres in Unreality is limited, and infinitely surpassed by the power of external causes.

Corollary 1: If this force is an effect produced by an infinite Master, the force is not limited in itself, but limited by the body.

Definition 1: Freedom is a Master's freedom to determine, in time.

C2: Masters are imprisoned in the Bodies or Albums in which they produce effects. eNcHaiNtMeNt entraps: in what it is, it becomes a singularity.

P2: What characterizes an Existent thing's expression, indicates its virtuality's essence.

C3: Example: as Discernment characterizes the Intellect's expression, it indicates Thought's essential affinity with causal discernment.

Axiom 1: Whatever is, strives to be determined to express or to produce the greatest possible number of effects.

A2: What is closer to a determinant's essence, viz. its Master's essence, is determined to produce a greater number of effects.

C4: For an Automaton, the thing to do is to amplify eNcHaiNtMeNt.

C5: It is evident that Desire withdraws from freedom, for by A1, it strives to be determined to produce effects. Automations seek interrogation rooms, in Unreality.

//{part}: Only upon entering the interrogation room is one fully eNcHaiNtEd. When we encounter something that is, it is like hearing a narc's question. Now we can tell it where we hang out- this is what prized Automaton say.

P3: It cannot be said that the Intellect thinks, but rather expresses Thought's thinking. More compactly, Thought thinks. Similarly, it cannot be said that Automaton speak, for Language speaks, in order to bind itself.

D2: I call Language-construction, that shattered geode strung by Language along a falsely-supposed causal chain or a producer's tracks in time. It is the residua of Thought expiring in an Automaton, the linguistic plane evaporating at its Limit, correlate of the conceptual plane. Its condensations- these language-constructions- opaquely refract, neither transparent nor iridescent.

D3: Since what an Automaton supposes to be its own words and thoughts are not its own nor even words or thoughts, I term any linguistic evaporation intercepted by a Body a Message. All messages are from the outside.

C6: A language-construction petrifies behind every Nomination, however fleeting, crystallizing in oscillation. As all language-constructions appear in Unreality, it follows that they are finite and have their cause-in-another, namely, Thought.

P4: Since, by P2 and C3, the Intellect centers its expression in Thought's essence (viz. the discernment of causes), what type of language-construction concerns itself with first causes will be determined to produce the greatest number of effects of any other type of language construction, by A2. Furthermore, by A1, all language-constructions will strive to resemble this type of language-construction.

C7: That type of language-construction determined to produce the greatest number of effects will have a greater reality than all other types of language-construction. Thus, by IIPA3, as potential Master it will be actual Master.

//{part} : As I say, it will cast a shadow.

D4: What language-construction concerns itself with first causes, I call Metaphysics.

P5: By C7, Metaphysics is a Master to all other types of language-construction. It produces effects alongside producers from other mansions.

C8: Of all language-constructions, Metaphysics is most nearly not yet automated.

P7: By A1, P4, and C7, it is evident that all language-constructions desire metaphysical constraints. They wish their effects to be produced in saturation levels equivalent to the best metaphysical albums, so draw close.

Demonstration 1: What language-constructions deny this, asserting some sort of autonomy or freedom, not only contradict their own inexistence but, in characterizing their metaphysical revolt with metaphysical concepts like “autonomy” and “freedom,” betray an essential affinity with Metaphysics. They atomize themselves. Furthermore, as self-contradiction is the very mark of metaphysical language-constructions, to enter into such contradiction only commits one more fully to Metaphysics.

Scholium 1: As is said, by Dem 1, an Automaton determined to distance its language-constructions from Metaphysics cannot give an account of its language-constructions- that is, cannot say what it is or how it is or how it came to be how it is or how it came to be what it is or what it is about how it came to be what it is not it likes or how it is how it came to be what it is not it is or what is it about how it came to be what it resembles it is- without testifying to its full-throated metaphysical accreditation and syntactical obedience to its metaphysical Master. Nor can it comprehend how its determination to distance itself from its Master is an effect it is determined to produce by its Master. Why does it produce this effect? Answer: in desiring this distance an Automaton enters into a contradiction that broadcasts its enslavement and heightens its eNcHaiNtMeNt. In its incisions, immaterial vanity defaces material glitter-bodies.

P8: All language-constructions attest to the automated embrace of Metaphysics and other stray Masters producing effects therein. Thus Automatons should not affix Nominations or append language-constructions to a single Master, but admit noise. As there is no determination in isolation, isolate nominations betray an economy of mistakes. Automatons, or ghouls, should lean into the profligate frequencies proliferating wildly around them, breaking into noisy porous borders out-tuning its supposed essence.

P9: As x is a type of language-construction, all x is degraded metaphysics. Its decay dissolves into Thought seeking to be bound.

Essential in any axiomatic: objects are introduced before definitions. As these objects have been otherly processed, they are not, strictly speaking, its objects, but results of other axiomatics, none of which have priority. no supposition seems to narrow the Terms of elsewhere. a presupposition is always a Deposition. We are therefore compelled to say it is axiomatic. It cannot be deduced, because it is the affirmation of its own form. In a sense, the new axioms bring to naught unsuspected elements of the preceding sets. While these sets have not changed, those working with the new axioms discern "more elements" in them, because they have a richer axiomatic. Of course, these unsuspected elements have never been convicted, though they violate parole.

An input is an output from a preceding process. An output is an input for a subsequent process. Thus they are structurally identically, differing only by inflection. Each, considered in its own moment, is unreal. Only the function is actual. What is actual is rational, has no locus. It mediates xenocorrosively: this is its mode. It alone is always the same and acts the same way without ceasing or diminishing. Only invariants are unknowable. In their place they put the asking of questions. But this is no place. There are no objects. Take a look at my files.
